

Office of the Chief Financial Officer (B)

The Chief Financial Officer directs the development, implementation, and administration of an integrated, Centerwide system of resources and financial management. Manages the budget formulation process for all elements of the Center's budget. Provides independent analysis and presents, justifies and negotiates the Center's budget with NASA Headquarters and, as appropriate, with the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) and Congressional committees.

Responsible for the operation of the Center's accounting system including all of the financial functions required to process transactions, and make payments, as well as, reporting results and performing associated analysis. Develops financial management operating policies and procedures consistent with applicable laws and regulations promulgated by NASA and other Agencies, such as the Government Accountability Office, the OMB and the Treasury Department. Represents the Center in all financial matters with NASA Headquarters, other Centers and other Agencies.

